U. S. World Flyers Arrive In Scotland

ICELAND NEXT POINT FOR LANDING

Three-Fourths of Journey Complete; Birdmen Ready For Home Flight

BULLETIN

KIRKWALL, Scotland, July 30.—The United States 'round-the-world aviators, led by Lieutenant Lowell Smith, arrived at Houghton bay at 4 o'clock this afternoon, completing the journey from Brough, England, in 5 hours and 35 minutes. The coast line distance between the two points is 370 miles, but the airmen took a roundabout course, owing to murky weather.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

BROUGH, Eng., July 30.—Having traveled approximately three-fourths of the way around the world in their historic flight, the United States army flyers, headed by Lieutenant Lowell M. Smith, turned their faces toward home today.

The six intrepid American aviators, traveling in three machines, left Brough at 10:25 o'clock for Kirkwall, in the Orkney Islands, off Scotland. The weather was good and the airmen expected to reach the island port in the afternoon.

Iceland Is Next

The Americans plan to rest over night at Kirkwall, replenishing their supplies. If weather conditions are good, they will leave tomorrow morning for Iceland, making two stops on that ice-bound island.

The jump-off starting today is regarded as the "last" lap of the Americans' globe-circling flight although they will have to traverse the American continent after crossing the Atlantic ocean from Iceland.

The entire flight, owing to necessary diversions, is about 27,000 miles, of which approximately 20,000 miles have been traveled.

Two Lawsuits Reveal Wreck of Friendship

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—Revealing the disruption of an alleged friendship of many years standing, there was filed here today suit for divorce of Mrs. Tekla Eufenia Perrson Hansen against Christen Hansen and a suit for $100,000 for alleged lost love by Mrs. Hansen against Mrs. Bessie Bracha and the latter's husband, M. A. Bracha.

Box of Counterfeit Coins Provides Big Mystery for Police

Mystery surrounds the finding of box of seventy-five counterfeit and mutilated silver coins by the side of the road in Tujunga today by William L. Twining of 1734 Hillside drive, and turned over by him to Chief of Police John Fraser. The coins were of small denomination, only two in the lot being $1 pieces.

The coins were loose in a small box, and were lying near the curb on Honolulu avenue, Mr. Twining told Chief Fraser. He was driving by in his automobile, when the box attracted his attention, and, upon investigation, found the worthless coins.

Chief of Police Fraser turned the find over to Sheriff Traeger, since that location is not within the city limits of Glendale. The chief is of the opinion that the box contained the collection of some person who had made a practice of gathering counterfeit and mutilated coins, and keeping them as souvenirs. The opinion in police circles is that the box was stolen by burglars from some residence or possibly a bank, and when the thieves found out the coins were worthless, they immediately took steps to get rid of them.

TRADE HINTS BY AERIAL SERVICE

Pacific Coast Business Men To Be Informed About New Opportunities

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Arrangements to rush information concerning trade opportunities existing throughout the world, to the Pacific coast via the United States aerial mails, were made today by the department of commerce.

Hints on new markets, meaning millions to Pacific coast business men, will be available in the western cities as soon as in New York and Boston, officials said.

Service Soon Starts

Particular attention will be paid to what the Far Eastern and South American markets want, as Pacific coast commerce is more vitally concerned with this business.

The new service is to be started within a short time, according to the announcement.

COUNTY TAX RATE NOT INCREASED

Supervisor Wright, In Talk To Realtors, Tells of Important Projects

Supervisor Henry W. Wright, addressing the Glendale Realty Board at the weekly luncheon in the Alley Inn today, brought out the following important information for the people of Glendale:

1 That the county tax rate to be assessed against the property owners of Los Angeles county will not be greater than the 68 cent figure of last year.

2 That the Board of Supervisors has launched a move to condemn a three-mile strip of beach north of Santa Monica to be preserved for the free use of the people of Southern California.

3 That the attorneys who have been examining the legality of the recently approved bond issue of $35,300,000 for flood control, have approved the first unit of $5,000,000 that was sold a month ago.

Get Few Protests

The Board of Supervisors, sitting as a Board of Equalization, said Mr. Wright, has been examining the assessments that have been made and, with the exception of very few instances the allowances customarily made to churches and charitable institutions, they have received very few protests against the tax assessments. The immensely increased valuation in Los Angeles county, he stated, will permit the county officials to administer the government and to carry out the important projects that are contemplated without increasing the county tax rate.

The action of the Board of Supervisors in setting aside the strip of beach north of Santa Monica is a part of the plan to foster a park system throughout the county, and no private interests will ever be able to shut the people of Southern California away from this beach, as has been done in many other cases.

For Flood Control

Work on the construction of flood control works in Sycamore canyon will start immediately following the approval of the plans by the Board of Supervisors, said Mr. Wright, and these will come up before the board for final action on Monday next. Engineers who have already examined the project from every angle state that the work should be completed within sixty days after the start is made, which should be in plenty of time, he asserted, to protect Glendale from the coming rains.

Verdugo Wash is to be protected by the construction of check dams in the small canyons leading into the Wash, to stop the rapid flow of the water and that will, it is claimed, increase the water level in the upper valleys north of Glendale.

Frank Kelly of Long Beach, an old-time friend of President Peter Hanson, was introduced, and H. N. Fowler, of Verdugo City, was also presented to the assembled realtors.

RELIEF HOME PLAN TOLD TO SYNOD

Property In Pasadena Is Offered; Committee to Conduct Inquiry

A home for retired ministers of California, to be located in Pasadena and representing an initial expenditure of $60,000 was suggested in the report of the California synod's committee on ministerial relief, read at the business session this morning by James Marwick of Santa Barbara, chairman of the committee.

The site selected by the committee for the proposed home is on San Pasqual avenue east of Rose street, in Pasadena, known as Woodland, and has a frontage of 1010 feet on San Pasqual avenue, with a depth of 640 feet. The tract covers fifteen acres, of which seven and one-half acres includes a house and orange grove with other fruit trees, also a number of large oak trees and shrubbery, according to the report.

Submits Offer

The property is offered for sale for $60,000, Mr. Marwick said in his report, payable $20,000 in cash and $40,000 secured by a 7 per cent mortgage. The land has been valued by experts at $45,000 while the improvements consisting of the house, shrubbery and orange grove are conservatively estimated at $20,000, Mr. Marwick said.

The house now on the tract, Mr. Marwick said, is two stories high with verandas on both floors. It is proposed to use this residence as the central building, and to later build a number of small bungalows on the seven and one-half acres of cleared land on the tract, he said. Should the property be purchased, Mr. Marwick said, two bungalows would be erected immediately, as the cash for one and a pledge for the cost of the other have been received.

Presents Resolution

In presenting his report, Mr. Marwick offered the following resolutions:

"It is recommended that synod approve of its committee arranging for the services of a financial agent to assist in pushing forward and actively developing the project, the salary to be paid out of the funds raised for the project.

"It is recommended that synod authorize its trustees to negotiate a loan of the required $20,000 cash, synod on its part being secured against loss by the church and individual guarantees for the like amount, and execute a 7 per cent mortgage for $40,000 in settlement for the balance."

Dr. Henry B. Master, secretary of the national board of ministerial relief, said the board had approved the idea and expected in the near future to take over the management of the home, making it the Pacific coast home for retired ministers.

Special Committee

At the suggestion of Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth, of Los Angeles, Moderator G. A. Briegleb appointed the following as members of a special committee to devise ways

VICTORY FOR LOEB AND LEOPOLD

Court Rules Defense Has Right to Call Its Experts to Stand

By GEO. R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 30—Nathan F. Leopold and Richard A. Loeb won their first legal engagement today in the efforts that their wealthy families are making to save them from going to the gallows for the murder of little Bobby Franks.

Justice John R. Caverly, sitting as the sole judge of their fate, ruled that their attorneys could put on the witness stand alienists and men of medical science to testify concerning the mental, moral and pathological character of the two collegians.

Protests Decision

This tactical victory for the young collegians, however, was immediately placed in jeopardy by the state's attorneys who protested Judge Caverly's decision bitterly. They said he was exceeding his authority in permitting such testimony in the trial, that any decision he ultimately renders will be void under the circumstances.

Judge Caverly declared "this is not a sanity trial, but this court is entitled to hear all the testimony bearing on the crime," including that of the alienists.

Accuses Defense

He said, too, that if at any time he became convinced that the dapper young students were insane, he would instruct their counsel to withdraw their pleas of guilty, enter a plea of not guilty and throw the case before a jury.

State's Attorney Crowe heatedly accused the defense of attempting to set up an insanity defense under another name, and he said that if Judge Caverly sends them to the gallows, Clarence Darrow could take an appeal to the supreme court and he, Crowe, would be compelled to confess error in the case because of Caverly's ruling in regard to the alienists' testimony.

When court adjourned soon after 4 o'clock, state's attorneys were still protesting against the court's decision and demanding that if any question of sanity or insanity was to be injected into this trial, a jury be summoned to determine the boys' mental status.

Woolwine Has Passed Crisis, Doctors Claim

PARIS, July 30.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, former district attorney of Los Angeles county, California, who has been seriously ill here, showed considerable improvement today, and the attending physicians were hopeful that the crisis has passed. The intermittent fits of nausea had passed and the patient is able to take regular nourishment.

Woolwine was more cheerful and expressed the hope that he would soon be in normal health. The physicians have decided it is possible to remove the Californian to the American hospital at Neuilly either tonight or tomorrow morning.

Crude Oil Price Cut 25 Cents Per Barrel

Building Permits For Month of July Now At Total of $1,116,321

With the issuance today of a building permit of $400,000, for the construction of a mausoleum at Grand View cemetery, the total for July was jumped to $1,116,321, making this the third largest building month in the history of the city. With over a day yet to run, the chances are that additional permits will make it the second largest or possibly even the largest building month Glendale has ever enjoyed.

Today Glendale leads the totals of permits issued up to the end of July, 1923, by $641,342. The permits for the first seven months of last year totaled $5,717,146. The figure for the year to date stands at $6,358,488.

The largest building month in the city's history, according to H. C. Vandewater, building superintendent, was April, 1922, when $1,226,699 in permits were issued. The second largest month was November, 1923, when the total was $1,132,562.

The $400,000 permit was taken out this afternoon by Len C. Davis, president of the Grand View cemetery. The mausoleum will be huge in proportions and one of the most beautiful in the country, according to the plans submitted by Mr. Davis and approved by Superintendent Vandewater of the building department.

TWO DEAD IN BATTLING FLAMES

Forest Fires Again Break Out In Various Parts Of California

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Described by the United States foresters' office as again "grave" because of climate conditions which are hindering fire fighters, a series of bad blazes which were rapidly eating their way through valuable state and national forest areas in California, had taken a toll of two lives today and destroyed thousands of acres of brush and timber.

Many of the conflagrations which are raging in widely separated parts of California were entirely out of control and spreading rapidly but are expected to be hemmed in before nightfall.

Killed by Rock

Carl Rosel, superintendent of the paper mill at Floriston in the Truckee River Canyon was killed when struck by a rock while battling a dangerous fire there and late reports today told of the death of Robert Clyburn, fire fighter, killed by a falling tree at the Beaver Creek fire in Klamath National forest.

The Klamath fire was said to be the most serious now raging in the state.

Admits Starting Fire

In what is described as the first conviction of incendiarism in California national forests this year, Henry Shutt will be sentenced today at Weaverville following his being found guilty by a jury of having started the disastrous Pappoose Creek fire which destroyed more than 1500 acres of valuable timberland.

Shutt, it was brought out at the trial, set the fire so that he could secure work fighting it.

C. E. KIMLIN SAYS FINES SYSTEM IS NOT RIGHT

Protection of Life and of Property, Not Revenue Methods Urged

Councilman C. E. Kimlin is opposed to the prevailing traffic system in the city of Glendale, as enforced by the police department and upheld by the police court. In an exclusive interview with a representative of The Glendale Evening News he declared that fines for traffic violations should be discontinued and some other way found of supplying any possible deficit to the city treasury that would result from discontinuance of the present system.

Motor officers should at all times have as their prime object the protection of life and property," says Councilman Kimlin. "Their aim should be to keep motorists out of trouble rather than to get them in trouble. They should patrol the streets while on duty and when they find it necessary to stop, should park parallel with the curb, in plain sight of the traffic.

Proposes Warning

"When a motor officer sees a speeder, he should pull up to him and in a courteous way tell him to slow down. There is a psychology in this simple act that would have an effect no fine can possibly have. Should Glendale inaugurate this system, the city would, in my opinion, have fewer violators of the law than at present.

"There are, of course, certain motorists who utterly disregard life and property in the reckless manner in which they drive. Such motorists should be arrested, their licenses revoked and their cars locked up for a certain period of time. A speeder who had once had such a punishment meted out would not be likely to speed again.

Boulevard Stops

"There should also be established in the city of Glendale a few boulevard stops, Central avenue, Colorado boulevard and Glendale avenue being the only streets that occur to me at present as needing such a safeguard. Brand boulevard and Broadway do not need it as the traffic moves slower on these streets and the car tracks tend to slow up the traffic.

"I outlined these suggestions to the joint meeting of the City Council and the Citizens' Traffic committee held yesterday morning at the City Hall and I believe that they met with approval. The matter will probably come up at the council meeting tomorrow morning, when Chief John D. Fraser of the police department and Judge Frank H. Lowe of the police court will meet with us to discuss the matter of traffic regulation.

Does Not Limit

"As a matter of fact, the California Motor Vehicle act does not in all cases limit motorists to the speeds of fifteen and twenty miles an hour posted about the city on numerous signs. Anyone who will read title 9 of the act, sections 112 to 145, will see that 'a careful and prudent speed not greater than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway,' is the basis of the act."

Under this act the maximum speeds permitted are:

1 Fifteen miles an hour in traversing a grade crossing, when the driver's view is obstructed.

2 Fifteen miles an hour in traversing an intersection of highways, when the driver's view is obstructed.

3 Fifteen miles an hour in going around curves or corners, when the driver's view is obstructed.

4 Fifteen miles an hour when passing a school, when persons are entering or leaving the grounds of said school.

5 Fifteen miles an hour in a business district.

6 Twenty miles an hour in a residence district.

7 Thirty-five miles an hour under all other conditions.

Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale, when asked if he concurred in the sentiments expressed by Councilman C. E. Kimlin in the above interview, stated:

"I am with the Citizens' Traffic committee appointed by the City Council and will back them up to the limit in the efforts they are making to solve the local traffic problem."

NEW HIGHWAY IN VALLEY RECEIVES ENDORSEMENT

Representatives of Several Planning Boards Go Over Proposed Route and Declare It Practical and Big Aid to Industries

Steps of far-reaching importance to the industrial development of Glendale and the San Fernando valley were taken this morning when members of the Regional, Los Angeles, Glendale and Burbank Planning commissions met at the Southern Pacific depot at the foot of Cerritos avenue and from there went over the proposed route of a new highway to reach from San Fernando to San Pedro, following the east bank of the Los Angeles river and paralleling the San Fernando road.

The Glendale Planning commission was represented by T. W. Watson, chairman; P. J. Hayselden, secretary; J. H. Randall and S. C. Kinch. The Regional Planning commission was represented by Hugh Pomeroy, the Los Angeles Planning commission by Gordon Whitnall and the Burbank Planning commission by Bert Cline.

The members of the delegation went from Glendale to Burbank, then followed the route of the proposed new highway from Turkey crossing to North Broadway, Los Angeles. They agreed after their survey that the plan is practical and decided they would take up the matter with their respective cities, requesting that an engineering survey of the entire stretch from Turkey crossing to North Broadway be undertaken at the earliest possible moment, as it is this part of the new highway they desire to get under way first.

This will permit the opening of a large industrial area in West Glendale, now not readily accessible, and will greatly stimulate industries, according to Chairman T. W. Watson of the Glendale Planning commission, who states that the city engineering department will shortly be asked by the commission to prepare plans for a roadway along both sides of the Verdugo flood control channel, from Brand boulevard to the new highway, running under the Southern Pacific tracks and the San Fernando road, thus affording a means of removing heavy traffic from existing highways.

While the method of financing construction of the proposed new highway was not discussed at this morning's joint meeting of the four planning commissions, Mr. Watson states it as his opinion that the major financing would have to come largely from general funds.

BASIS FOR SUIT SETTLEMENT SET

Board of Control Authorizes Compromise of Stuart Claim for Service

The Board of Control, meeting in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, recommended that Attorney Bert P. Woodard be authorized to settle the suit filed by Charles R. Stuart, advertising expert, against the Glendale Chamber of Commerce for $1500 for services in connection with the preparation of copy for the advertising campaign.

The basis of settlement recommended calls for the payment of $650 to Mr. Stuart, the cancellation of the $200 balance on his subscription of $250 to the advertising fund, the allowance of $16 for the court costs already expended by Stuart's attorneys, and the return to the Chamber of Commerce of the $250 check already sent to Stuart.

At last night's meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, held at the home of President W. E. Hewitt, 319 East Randolph street, the board voted to approve the action of the Board of Control, with directors Lyman P. Clark, Frank L. Fox, C. W. Ingledue, R. F. Kitterman and L. H. Wilson voting against approval.

City's $5000 Pledge

At the meeting of the Board of Control an opinion of Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, was quoted, stating that the only legal method by which the City of Glendale could contribute its pledge of $5,000 to the advertising fund would be for the money to be paid out by the City Council on duly authenticated bills from the advertising committee, and this course will be followed by the Board of Control.

The members of the Board of Control who were present at yesterday's meeting were D. H. Smith, president; J. Herbert Smith, secretary; A. R. Eastman, J. M. Boland, O. M. Newby and A. L. Baird, with Paul E. Stillman, chairman of the advertising committee also in attendance.

Feline Derelicts Are Left To Starve In Summer, Says Animal Lover

When vacation time comes, poor Pussy, the family pet, is all too frequently left to shift for himself. While his erstwhile friends are enjoying the cool mountain breezes or listening to the sad sea waves, puss is ofttimes put to his wits' ends to get the one square meal a day on which cats thrive, and when he poaches on the preserves of the neighbors, he is in peril of his life.

All in all, the Glendale Humane society feels that for a family to go away on a vacation and leave Pussy "on his own" is a highly reprehensible and inhumane act. Mrs. B. O. Holbrook of 426 West Harvard street, a member of this society and of the Glendale Cat club, has been called upon to provide homes for a number of such feline derelicts within the past few weeks, and is eager for those who have cats and do not know what to do with them while on their vacations to get in touch with her or communicate with Claribel Grim of the Glendale Cat club of Grand View avenue and Matilija road.

Question of Humanity

"This seems a small issue with many," says Mrs. Holbrook, "but there is involved in it a question of humanity which is of far larger moment than appears on the surface. The family which deliberately ignores, or simply forgets, its pets in this manner is reprehensible in the highest degree and classes itself, perforce, with those who countenance or practice cruelty in any other manner upon the defenseless friends of man.

"Some there may be who express themselves as horrified at the thought of vivisection or the training of animals for the stage and willingly join in a crusade against such barbaric practices, but slightingly allow their pets to shift for themselves during the summer months. Such are little better than those whom they condemn, for food does not grow on the bushes for hungry cats, and the misery endured by a starving cat is not far removed from the agony suffered on the operating table. A little kindly forethought may prevent much unnecessary distress."

Modern Woodmen Plan Entertainment

Huntington, A. N. Wodder, D. Stewart, M. H. Bloodgood.

Water Meters Reveal Population's Growth

TUJUNGA, July 30.—The record of water meter installations made by the Haines Canyon Water company during the last twelve months ending July 22, shows that more meters have been installed during this period than at any previous time in the growth of Tujunga. The total number in use is 1702 and a conservative estimate of three persons to each meter brings the population to 5106 people.

Of the 1702 meters now in use, 370 were installed during the last twelve months, an average of one new meter each day. The homes in which these meters have been installed are, in general, of much greater value than the ones built two and three years ago. This indicates that the temporary dwelling of the cabin type is passing and that permanent buildings of a better type are being erected.

Spears Family Badly Shaken In Iowa Wreck When Trains Collide

Interesting accounts of conditions in the middle west are given by Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Spears of 718 East Acacia avenue, who returned home Sunday from a trip that began June 28. They left Glendale at that time to take the body of Mr. Spears' sister, Mrs. Margaret Hiddleson, formerly of 926 South Adams street, to Morrison, Ill., for funeral and burial.

Later they visited their old home at Primghar, and were guests of Mrs. Spears' brother at Chariton, Ia. Going into Kansas, they were entertained by Mr. Spears' brother at Baldwin.

They state that the crops in Kansas look better than in recent years. Conditions in northern Iowa were found to be most unfavorable.

In Train Wreck

While traveling by train from Primghar to Ames, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Spears were in a wreck at Webster City. Their train and a freight train collided head-on. No one was killed, but Mr. and Mrs. Spears and other passengers were bruised, shocked and injured.

Mr. Spears' niece, Virginia Hiddleston, returned to California with them and will live with her uncle and aunt in Glendale.

Mr. Spears represents a large wholesale produce company of Los Angeles.

Hold Lucky Tickets For Electric Prizes

Mrs. H. Gould of 124 West Laurel street was the lucky holder of the ticket that drew the electric toaster that was given away by the Washer Wilson company, East Broadway, in a free drawing of electric appliances. The tickets were distributed during the industrial show in South Glendale last week and the drawing took place at the store on Monday. Mrs. F. H. Rittenhouse of 1245 South Mariposa drew the electric iron and N. F. Rush of 984 Dale street, Pasadena, a vacuum cleaner.

W. E. Hewitt, Soon Going Abroad, Host At Dinner To C. C. Board Of Directors

The regular weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was held last night at the home of the president, W. E. Hewitt, at 319 East Randolph street, when the members were entertained at dinner on the eve of President Hewitt's departure for a three months' tour of Europe.

The entire membership of the board, consisting of D. H. Smith, first vice president; George B. Karr, second vice president; A. R. Eastman, treasurer; Directors George H. Bentley, Lyman P. Clark, Fred Deal, Frank L. Fox, P. J. Hayselden, C. W. Ingledue, R. F. Kitterman, H. G. MacBain, Earle C. Pendroy and L. H. Wilson; and other invited guests, Mayor Spencer Robinson, A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News, and T. D. Watson.

A. J. Barnes of the Santa Monica Improvement association, attended the meeting of the board and asked the co-operation of the organization and of Glendale in pushing through the plans for a bridge on Glendale boulevard that would afford an improved traffic outlet to the Hyperion-Santa Monica boulevard that now leads directly into the heart of Los Angeles and that offers a quick and logical route to the beach.

Urges City to Act

Declaring that Glendale is suffering from the lack of an adequate bridge at Glendale boulevard, Mr. Barnes said that the question of the distribution of the cost of several proposed bridges would come up before the Los Angeles city authorities at an early date, and, while the Glendale boulevard bridge lies within the Los Angeles city limits, it is felt in many quarters that the county should be asked to bear a share of the cost. He suggested that Glendale, as the most important unit in the fifth supervisoral district, should at once endeavor to secure a pledge from the supervisor of this district, as well as other members of the board, that every possible support to the project would be given by the county.

It was pointed out that Supervisor Henry W. Wright of the fifth district has already gone on record as pledging his aid in securing a new and better bridge across the Los Angeles river, and it was suggested that other candidates for the office of supervisor from this district be also asked to take a similar stand in the event of their election.

The Chamber of Commerce highways and bridges committee will be instructed to prepare a resolution to be presented to the Board of Supervisors, asking that an appropriation be made to help defray the cost of a new bridge and viaduct across the Los Angeles river at Glendale boulevard.

Railroad Merger

A request from the Southern Pacific company, asking that a resolution be passed endorsing the proposed merger of the Southern Pacific and the El Paso & Southwestern systems, was held over until the directors learn the result of the conferences that are being held through the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The board also tabled a request from the campaign manager of Judge William S. Baird, candidate for the Superior court bench in the coming election, that Judge Baird be permitted to address the organization in the course of his campaign.

The directors ratified the action of the executive sessions held at the last four meetings, and at which there was not a quorum present.

Progress on the sewer problem is being made rapidly, President Hewitt stated, adding that he has been advised by Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, that the contract for the construction of the system should be awarded about September 1. Mayor Robinson added that a change that has been made in the proposed grades, in a conference between the Glendale and Los Angeles engineers, will result in a further important saving

COMMITTEE WILL SEEK SECRETARY

Resignation of E. F. Sanders Accepted by Directors Of Glendale C. of C.

The resignation of E. F. Sanders as secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was officially presented to the directors last night at their meeting at the home of President W. E. Hewitt, 319 East Randolph street, and was unanimously accepted, with the understanding that the board will attempt to secure a successor to Mr. Sanders in time to permit him to end his connection with the organization by August 15, and to assume his duties in his new post at the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce.

A committee, consisting of Frank L. Fox, chairman; C. W. Ingledue, George B. Karr, P. J. Hayselden and L. H. Wilson, was appointed by President W. E. Hewitt to canvass the applications that have already been received from those who seek the post left vacant by Mr. Sanders. Over thirty persons have already applied for the secretaryship of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, it is stated, and the qualifications of each one will be thoroughly investigated by the committee before any recommendation is made to the directors.

Work Is Praised

In presenting his resignation, Mr. Sanders spoke of the cordial relations that had existed between the directors and himself during his three years' service with the Chamber of Commerce and declared that he would always stand ready to assist Glendale in any way possible.

President Hewitt expressed the regret of the directors at Mr. Sanders leaving the office, and a resolution offered by Director Fox, expressing the appreciation of the board for the work done by Mr. Sanders, was unanimously authorized.

Offer Services

Charles P. Bayer and S. P. Morris of the extension bureau of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who were present at the meeting, place the services of their organization at the disposal of the Glendale board in aiding in any way possible to determine the fitness of any applicant for the position of secretary. Mr. Baer asserted that they had no suggestions to make as to the man to be chosen for the place, and that their only desire was to see that Glendale secured someone who would measure up to the important duties that will fall on the new appointee at this stage of Glendale's development.

Sees Glendale Elk Parading In Boston

Miss Lieba Rubin, who spent the last two years in Glendale, is now visiting in her home city, Boston, Massachusetts, from where she writes that during the Elks' convention there she was happy to see the Glendale delegation. Miss Rubin writes, "Imagine my delight while watching the Elks' parade, to see one man marching along with a Glendale badge on his coat. It proves this world is really a small place after all." The Glendale delegate referred to by Miss Rubin was S. Berman of 110 East Palmer street.

Burglars Loot Home; Meat Market Raided

The home of C. H. Morrill of 1006 North Geneva street was entered by burglars last night and silverware stolen.

Burglars were reported to have broken into the grocery store of E. A. Morrison, Inc., at 214 South Brand boulevard, and the Henry Guasti meat market. Investigation by the police showed that the meat market had been disturbed, hams and bacon being scattered around. All doors were found securely locked.

CHURCH VISITORS PRAISE GLENDALE

Faith of City's Builders Is Justified by Growth, Says Delegate

Compliments are being showered on the city of Glendale by the hundreds of church people now in attendance at the synodical meeting at the Glendale Presbyterian church. Among the many visitors in the city yesterday was Mrs. Mary O. Lotspeich of 640 Park avenue, Los Angeles, who paid a special visit to The Glendale Evening News office to voice her praise of Glendale and of the hospitality being extended by the Presbyterian church and the city to the synodical guests. Mrs. Lotspeich says:

"We have all lived in places where the growth has far exceeded the fondest hopes of the first comers. But those who had the making of Glendale had a faith in a future which has already been justified. The name which greets visitors is 'Glendale,' but the letters spell a realization of vision to observing eyes.

Soda & Potash Corporation Buys Site Here, Plans To Erect $140,000 Plant

The Soda & Potash corporation, with offices in Los Angeles, has purchased five acres of the Gus Thimgan property on Sonora street, just off San Fernando road in the vicinity of the Glendale Airport, and will proceed within thirty days to erect a chemical plant totaling an investment of $140,000, announces Charles W. Berry, president of the corporation, which is owner of the 6420 acre deposit of raw materials located in Nye county, Nevada, about forty miles from the famous "20-Mule Team" borax deposit in Death Valley.

Mr. Berry states that plans for the plant are now being worked out by the Kennard Engineering company of Los Angeles, and that within ninety days the corporation hopes to have the plant in operation and employing 200 people. The products will be caustic soda, soda ash, hyposulphite of soda, soda bicarbonate and allied chemicals.

Much Raw Material

The deposit of raw materials at the corporation's mine is said by Mr. Berry to be of high purity, the mine being similar in many respects to the British soda mine in South Africa, famous throughout the world for its purity. The raw material is reported to be easily accessible and can be shipped to the forthcoming Glendale plant at a low cost.

The estimated daily output of the plant will be 200 tons of crude materials, yielding 117 tons of finished sodas, sixteen tons of potash and sixty-five tons of commercial clays, according to Mr. Berry, who states that the project includes the possibility of a number of subsidiary plants in the same locality, which will utilize the by-products of the original plant.

Operate at Profit

"Heretofore practically no potash deposits in the United States have been available to operate in competition with the imported German and Alsacian products," says Mr. Berry. "Deriving our potash from natural salts, easily

REVOLUTION AND COFFEE SHORTAGE

Whether or not the aroma of breakfast table coffee is going to be more expensive perfume for American nostrils, seems to depend not only on the duration of the Brazilian revolt in Sao Paulo, but on what action the Brazilian government takes after the revolution is over.

The new Brazilian crop now is ready to come on the market. Since the revolution started, somewhere around 450,000 bags, which normally would have been shipped to the outside world from Santos, the port of Sao Paulo, even under the restriction placed on exports by the Brazilian national government to further its scheme for the price control of coffee, have been dammed back.

Stocks of coffee in some sections of this country have grown short, and spot coffee prices have advanced greatly. A survey of the situation on the Pacific coast, for example, shows less than a month's supply in the hands of importers, and the rush of consumers to stock up has depleted supplies of retailers. Only one ship carrying coffee is now en route from Brazil to the Pacific coast. Similar situations exist in other parts of the United States.

The important question is, whether, after the cessation of hostilities, the Brazilian government will permit back shipments, checked at Santos, to come out, or whether it will allow only the usual restricted amount to be shipped.

The check to the exportation of Santos coffee has undoubtedly strengthened the statistical position of the government in reference to its efforts to hold up the price of coffee. But, the revolution has cost the government a tremendous sum, and that cost will continue as long as the revolution lasts. In addition, the outbreak has had a depressing effect on Brazilian exchange.

It may be that the pressing need of cash for the rehabilitation of exchange may induce the government to allow the delayed shipments to reach American ports. In this event, danger of a shortage will be largely obviated. Such danger exists in the better grades rather than in the cheaper coffees, since the former largely is produced in Sao Paulo state and shipped by way of Santos. It is understood late shipments to that port were of especially superior grade.

The Brazilian crop this year is short, running only about 60 per cent of that of last year. Consumption has increased rapidly, both in America and European countries. World requirements for 1924 are estimated at over 22,000,000 bags. The Brazilian crop, the carryover from the previous crop, and the amount produced in all the other countries (between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 bags) will scarcely equal these requirements. The strength of the position of the supplies gathered at Santos, therefore, can readily be understood.

Shipments to be sure, are proceeding from Rio de Janeiro and other ports, but these are of a character to supply only a part of the demands of American consumers. Moreover, much of the 1923-24 crop was damaged by rains last winter, which further reduced the supplies of desirable grades for export consumption.

A SMILE IN THE HEART

If there is one thing that breeds discord in the human heart it is to have the professional optimist slap one on the back when one is feeling blue and admonish one to "smile, smile, smile." It has about the same effect that a plate of ham and eggs would have upon a man who is sea-sick.

Nevertheless the fellow who bids us smile has the right idea although he may make a nuisance of himself. For there is virtue in a smile from every point of view. An affected smirk is disgusting, but it may be that exercising the muscles in forced smiles may make them more pliable so that real smiles will come oftener and easier. A smile from the heart breeds both health and happiness, and a hearty laugh is even better.

A smile is often the badge of bravery. A smile, as they would say in the movies, often "hides a broken heart." Physical pain or mental suffering may be our lot, but the world cares little for our troubles, and the person who refuses to add to the big sum total of the misery in the world by drawing a long face and reciting his ill-fortune is the person with real courage and fortitude. A smile that hides suffering of any kind makes the world happier and reacts upon the one who smiles.

In addition to its psychological effects a smile has physical benefits, too. It is said that the muscles of the face when smiling or laughing relax the nerves and release juices that aid in digestion. A hearty laugh has a better effect than a deep breathing exercise and a digestive tonic, and is much more pleasant to take. Everyone knows that good cheer is the greatest aid to digestion and that anger, hatred, moroseness and bitterness literally breed poisons in the system that interfere with digestion and other bodily functions. We all know of cases where severe illness was the result of these emotions, and if we look around we will see many evidences of the benefits of good cheer.

We all love the one who smiles naturally and spontaneously and the one who laughs heartily. Some people are natural born smilers, others cultivate the art. Learn to smile for your own sake as well as that of others, but remember that a real smile is not alone of the lips. It must be bred in the heart.

VIEWPOINT IS IMPORTANT

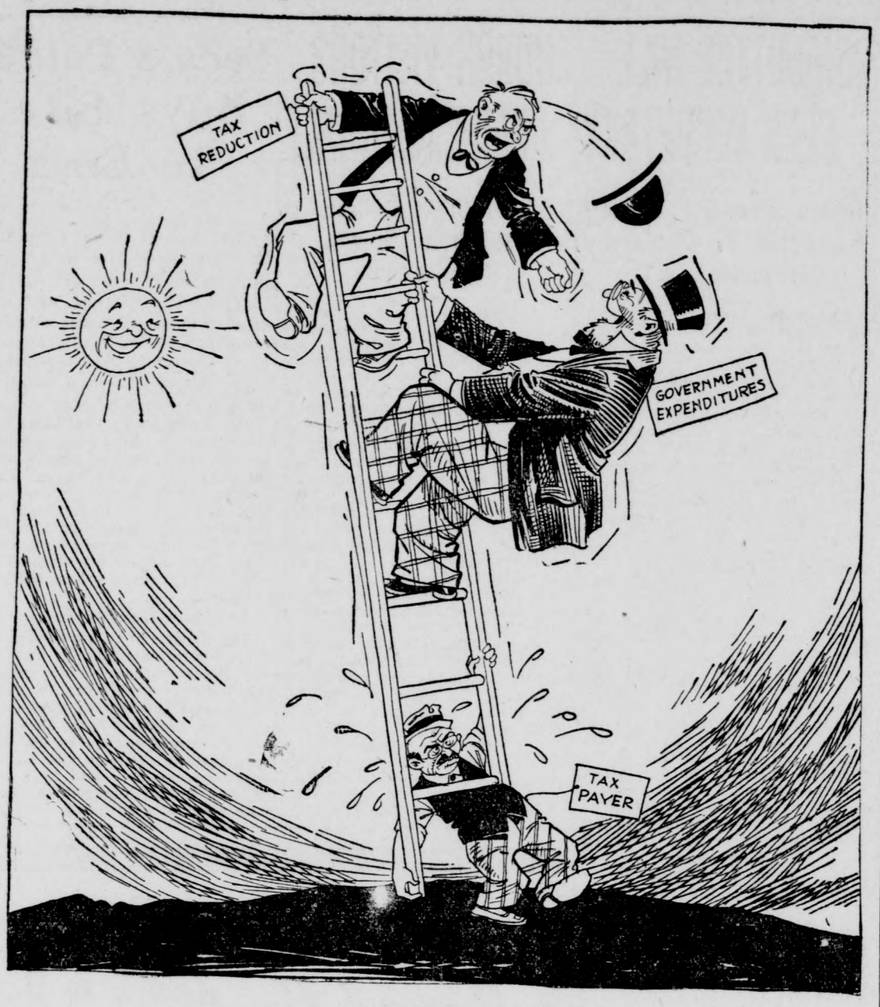
Viewpoint is so important. It makes such a difference how and from what spot of vantage we see things. We are so apt to get a limited and a distorted view unless we are careful. A stranger looking toward Glendale from the Los Angeles river bed would not be very greatly impressed by the appearance of the city. But looking over this valley from the Griffith Park hills or from the top of Mt. Verdugo he would be enraptured. It is the same way when people and things are viewed from the low and narrow standpoint of our own selfishness. We do not get a very comprehensive vision. But when we see things from the height of understanding of the needs of others the view inspires us to better thoughts and words and deeds.

Funny how opinions differ. Nobody is satisfied with the man who is satisfied with himself.

Our idea of inconsistency is to wear a parasol to a doctor's office to buy an artificial sunburn.

A lot of big leaguers down town are just bush leaguers at home.

"YOU'VE GOT TO GO DOWN FIRST!"



Intimacies

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Most problems in life are problems of intimacies.

What makes marriage so difficult is that it is a great intimacy.

People are so constituted that they cannot get along very well together unless they run in certain grooves and attend certain forms.

There are very few people with whom you can be free and careless. The first thing you know there will be a blow-up. For sincerity requires a sincere soul to believe it and an open mind, while anybody can get behind good manners.

It is essential that husband and wife remain polite to each other. When they cease being so, marriage is in danger.

Very often the complaint that people are formal is a complaint against shyness and not against exclusiveness.

Many people are not cordial and open for the simple reason that they do not want to be hurt. They have found out by experience that most people take advantage of intimacies to annoy them. Hence they retreat behind the veil of ceremony.

There are very few people in the world with whom we want to be intimate, or can afford to be. Intimacy requires understanding and understanding requires love.

To find an understanding love that forgives all because it comprehends all is very rare. It is for this reason that we must treat everybody with uniform courtesy, for it is behind this courtesy that we find our own protection.

Intimacies are trials of the soul. Our children come to know us and our wife comes to know us as no one else does.

That is the principal reason why most people get along so ill with their families. They are compelled to be great. It does not matter so much if they are good or not.

But it is impossible to live with anyone very long on terms of great intimacy who is not great.

Who's Who

"The original Davis man" is what they call Clem L. Shaver, the new chairman of the Democratic national committee. For Shaver is just that.

He has been a Davis man ever since he and the Democratic nominee for the presidency were serving their political apprenticeships in West Virginia, many years ago. The two men were chairmen of committees in adjoining counties, Davis in Harrison and Shaver in Marion. The contact they began led to Shaver nominating Davis for congress in 1910.

A lawyer by profession and a stock raiser by avocation, Mr. Shaver still maintains a law office in Fairmount, but ceased active practice some time ago. He will devote his entire attention to his new job.

Mr. Shaver is a native of West Virginia and is 57, just six years the senior of Mr. Davis.

Since his service as chairman of the Democratic state committee of West Virginia from 1912 to 1920, his political activities have been devoted to the furtherance of the Davis candidacy.

Today's Poem

A TRAGEDY

Among his books he sits all day
To think and read and write;
He does not smell the new-mown hay,
The roses red and white.

I walk among them all alone,
His silly stupid wife;
The world seems tasteless, dead and done—
An empty thing is life.

At night his window casts a square
Of light upon the lawn;
I sometimes walk and watch it there
Until the chill of dawn.

I have no brain to understand
The books he loves to read;
I only have a heart and hand
He does not seem to need.

He calls me "Child"—lays on my hair
Thin fingers, cold and mild;
Oh! God of Love who answers prayer,
I wish I were a child!

And no one sees and no one knows
(He least would know or see),
That ere Love gathers next year's rose
Death will have gathered me.

—Edith Nesbit.

THE FADE AWAY

"What do you make a week?" asked a judge of an Italian organ-grinder.

"Twenty dollars, sare."

"What! Twenty dollars for grinding an organ?"

"No, sare; not for da grind—but for da shut up and go away."

SHOCKING

A chap was arrested for assault and battery and brought up before the judge.

Judge (to prisoner)—"What is your name, your occupation and what are you charged with?"

Prisoner—"My name is Sparks, I am an electrician and I am charged with battery."

Judge—"Officer, put this guy in a dry cell."

The Ravings Of a Grouch

I have always had great respect for the marriage ceremony (though a bachelor) and considered it very necessary and, as the society editor would say, "beautiful and impressive." But I do not believe it to be so efficacious as many seem to think. It has its limitations and I doubt whether whitewashing is one of its functions or qualifications.

A woman of evil reputation marries and she is at once purified in the eyes of the world although she has no change of heart. The marriage ceremony has cleansed her white as snow. Thereafter she is known as a "respectable married woman." Her sister in sin experiences repentance and reforms her life. But are repentance, baptism, a new and better life sufficient to cleanse her in the eyes of the world? Certainly not. She will never be anything but what she was. There will always be whisperings about her. She may have been cleansed in the blood of the lamb, but she has never been whitewashed by the marriage ceremony.

I do not think the marriage ceremony justifies any relationship that is not built upon affection and a reasonable degree of compatability and congeniality. When a marriage is founded upon conventions, wealth, fame or anything but real affection I claim the sacred ceremony has been misused. When a man marries a woman because she can preside gracefully over a beautiful home, when a woman takes a man because he can give her a fine house, beautiful clothes and the luxuries that money can buy they are perverting the marriage relation and are just as guilty as the man who, on the witness stand, takes an oath to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth and then perjures himself.

When a woman marries a man because he holds a high position and she worships fame, when he marries for policy's sake they are desecrating marriage.

There is a tendency to rush into marriage today with little thought or preparation. Marry in haste and get a divorce at leisure is the motto of many. Any reason for marriage is good enough. But, as I said, I do not believe the marriage ceremony is broad enough to cover unworthy motives.

MILLINERY SHOWS PARISIAN MOTIF

Advance Note Is Sounded In Styles on Display at Glendale Salon

While the most of us are still lingering in the cooling breeze, as it were, there are always those who are a bit in advance and this fact is thoroughly emphasized by the Suzanne Smart Hats, located at 144-A South Brand boulevard, under the capable and clever direction of Mrs. M. S. Todd, whose experience in both buying and making of women's hats strongly rivals our Parisian creators in the art of millinery.

The smart arrivals, many of which are direct from Paris, in lustrous velvets and satins which are being shown daily at the Suzanne, are eagerly sought by the women of Glendale who are desirous of having the last word in millinery, as to style and quality, and a recent communication direct from Paris to Mrs. Todd of the Suzanne, states: "There are no lovelier chapeaux in all Paris than your own." This bit of information will assure milady that she need not go out of her own lovely city to procure that for which she would pay several times the price in a larger market.

Remodeling Feature

A most interesting feature of the Suzanne Smart Hats is the make-over department which is personally supervised by Mrs. Todd, whose efficiency enables her to remodel any hat to perfectly harmonize with the features and characteristics of the wearer, thus effecting individuality in all of her work. The language of one who said her hair is woman's crowning glory may be appropriately transposed,—her "hat" is her crowning glory.

Just a word about the trend of style which always expresses chicness, yet at times becomes a bit dashing or a trifle daring. However, the new high flat crown adds a touch of dignity while the round sectional crown with its saucily slashed rolled rim gives a youthful touch to even the matrons' chapeaux.

Mosquitoes prefer to sting horses rather than other living things, their next choice is cows, then dogs and pigs, with human beings fifth on their calling list.

Better Than First Mortgages

Our Certificates are safer than first mortgages. Because ALL of our first mortgages are back of them. Besides, all our capital stock holders guarantee them, and we are under State supervision, similar to Savings Banks. They are more convenient than first mortgages. Because you can purchase them in any amount, and let them run for six months or six years, or longer, as you like.

During the entire fifty years since Building and Loan Associations have been operating in California, there have been no Investment Certificate holders in a Guarantee Capital Stock Association lose a dollar of their investment.

Automobile Industry Shows Big Activity

DETROIT, July 30.—Reversal of the falling off in employment and an increase in the demand for raw materials are the outstanding features of the industrial situation. Loans are increasing at local banks, but the most encouraging factor for increased automobile production is reports from the western farm districts that more cars are being sold. Dealers in Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas have changed their tune and now say they expect to take more cars this fall.

Automobile makers are pretty well cleaned up of old stocks and expect gradually to increase output for the next six weeks. State registration of automobiles shows increased sales in Michigan. Cars are now being manufactured at the rate of 1000 a day, against 600 in June.

Heavy Cherry Crops Bring High Prices

DETROIT, July 30.—The cherry crop of the Charlevoix district will be heavy and ample labor is available to pick it. Last year much of the fruit was left on the trees. Prices are firm. The grape crop does not look promising, and the peach crop is almost a failure, owing to late developments.

Morner Claims Peggy Had Wed Five Times

NEW YORK, July 30.—"She told me she had been married only twice, but I found out I was her fifth husband."

The tall, handsome Count Gosta Morner, a picture of woe despite his athletic build and well-tailored appearance, today in an interview gave this as one of the reasons why he is suing the fascinating Peggy Hopkins Joyce for the annulment of their marriage, which was solemnized in Atlantic City on June 2.

"Misrepresentation and fraud," he declared, will be the basis of his charges.

Peter L. Ferry Fined For Sumphole Fire

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—Peter L. Ferry, Glendale grading contractor, paid $50 in justice court at Sherman yesterday for violation of the county ordinance prohibiting the burning of sumpholes where oil lands are being subdivided. He was denied permission by the Board of Supervisors and figured it less expensive to pay a fine than to use other methods than burning. Irate householders in the vicinity caused his arrest.

Torrid Weather Adds To Wealth In Cotton

ATLANTA, July 30.—Each day of the torrid temperatures under which Georgia is sweltering is worth $1,500,000 to cotton growers of the state, according to J. S. Peters, president of the Georgia Bankers' association, who estimated that 10,000 bales of cotton a day are getting beyond reach of weevil damage. The crop can stand thirty days of drought and still mature, owing to the moisture put in the ground by heavy spring rains.

Farmers are not concealing their elation, but retailers are being hit by the hot weather, which is keeping shoppers indoors. Wholesalers are being benefited by orders for fall from the rural districts and better demand for cotton goods.

Crippled Boy Sends Gift to Film Actor

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.—John Bowers, film actor, has received the strangest token of esteem. A nickeled jackknife from "Jerry," who lies in a Chicago hospital with a leg amputated, is mute evidence of his admiration for Bowers' work. Jerry's father wrote that the knife was the boy's most treasured possession.

Censorship—That Injures Admiration For Education Slayers And Prize Winners Keeping The Gates Closed

By Gil A. Cowan

Censorship of news dispatches from Brazil have done irreparable damage to that country, it is reported on the marts of trade.

Municipal bonds of Sao Paulo have shrunk in value; and, despite the reported shortage of shipping facilities for the coffee crop, the bears rule the market, and "futures" are not being bought at war prices.

Also, water power projects for the South American republic cannot be financed or engineered for the present.

Yet the revolution in no way will change the value of natural resources. Neither should it affect the coffee crop or the valuation of property on which bonds are issued. The fighting is of a sporadic nature which is to be expected in the Latin Americas.

But censorship, unfavorable publicity—that's what hurts.

Never was the writer so stirred with admiration for education than occasioned by a visit to the agricultural college of the University of California at Davis.

There young huskies—most of them farm boys, by the way—were leading forth the blooded cattle for exhibition before the state legislators. Others were engaged in creamery work and the study of motor equipment.

Again, we saw them in swimming trunks, plunging about the farm bathing pool—a virile type of manhood that had no thought of blackmail or sensuousness or murder.

Strange, how we have columns about two Chicago college boys who commit murder and only a line or two, about the three Whiteside county, Illinois, youths who won the international stock judging contest in England the first of the month.

More unusual, however, is the fact that two of the trio lived in town, and had to get their information from without the precinct of Morrison, their home.

Educating the city boy for rural pursuits can be accomplished.

But our educators seem to think it is their bounden duty to educate the country lad for city life.

Unfortunately for those who have lived to learn there is something more in life than the four walls of an office, the narrow lanes of skyscrapers, the daily handling of other peoples' money and toiling, not for yourself, but for many critical people.

While traveling the High Sierras into Tahoe Lake country two years ago, the writer inquired of a rancher's lad at the gate of a country road: "Why do you keep the gate closed?"

His reply was: "To keep the stock from wandering away."

Now, if there were only some method of keeping humans in bounds, so they would not wander away from righteous paths, no doubt teh millennium would be hastened, but there seems to be a clear call that the youth of this country be fenced away from the loco weeds which are comparable to radicals, the poisoned water holes which are comparable to fountains of abnormal intellectuality, the sheer cliffs of canyon sides which are comparable to depths of mental and spiritual despond found in so many lives today.

Urges Reconciliation In Countess Divorce

Secretary Sanders Gives Summary Of C. C. Activity During Past Six Months

E. F. Sanders, the retiring secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, last night presented the following summary of the organization's activities for the past six months to the directors who met at the home of President W. E. Hewitt at 319 East Randolph street:

"A Chamber of Commerce has two great distinctive functions by which it is judged by people who know. The first function and the most important is the things that it does NOT do; by this I mean the preventive measures adopted by a Chamber of Commerce, thereby keeping the city and the individual residents of the city from making mistakes in getting behind industries which are more or less questionable and business enterprises that are not soundly financed.

"This Chamber of Commerce has not recommended the purchase of stock or securities of any character in any industry or business enterprise which has been a failure during this period. There has never been a day since January first that the Chamber of Commerce offices have been open that we have not received from one to five propositions of various characters offering to come to Glendale if Glendale would raise a certain amount of money; in other words, these promotion propositions would come here if we would pay them to come. While other cities of Southern California have sunk hundreds of thousands of dollars in ventures of various kinds, Glendale has not lost a single dollar through any act of the Chamber of Commerce in recommending or getting back of any stock or bond issue.

"This is what we mean when we speak of a Chamber of Commerce not doing things as a great and mighty function.

"I have now to call your attention to some of the outstanding constructive things that have taken place under the present management of your Chamber.

"Float—On the first day of January the float, 'Fairyland,' which was the direct work of the Chamber of Commerce, took two first prizes in Pasadena and advertised the city of Glendale to over 300,000 people.

"Annual Meeting—The annual meeting which was held in January was conceded by all of our citizens to be one of the most distinctive and unique events ever held in our midst for the reason that every civic and service organization took part in the program and the spirit of constructive co-operation united as never before our various organizations for the one purpose of building a greater Glendale.

"Advertising Bulletins, Booklets, etc.—From January first up to the present time, 105,000 pieces of advertising matter have been sent out from the Chamber of Commerce to all parts of the world. This is exclusive of the daily letters which are written to thousands of inquirers.

"Community Chest — Shortly after the organization of this present board of directors, the secretary brought to the attention of the board the necessity of having in Glendale a community chest thereby eliminating the fourteen or fifteen drives that are made for the raising of funds every year. A committee was appointed and an organization effected which has been functioning creditably ever since and bids fair to put on a campaign this coming fall that will amply care for all the welfare and charitable organizations of our city in the most scientific and approved manner. W. E. Hewitt, president of this chamber, was made president of the Glendale Welfare Chest and has given much of his time and ability to perfecting this organization.

"Population—During the seven months of this year, over 7,000 people have been added to our population, due largely to the advertising and the attention given to prospective residents which has all been done under the direct supervision of your chamber.

"Depot—The new Southern Pacific depot which was purely a Chamber of Commerce activity was completed during this period and dedicated under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce on March 27, 1924. A new schedule of train stops was inaugurated and today, Glendale's new depot serves a population of about 300,000. This event of itself if nothing else had been accomplished would have justified the existence of your commerce body.

"Sewers—The long, arduous task of the sewer committee of your chamber, dating back over four years ago, found fruition during this period which is just closing by co-operating with the City Council in every way possible to bring about, first, the contract existing between this city and Los Angeles to build the sewers, and, second, by using every effort and influence within the power of the chamber, to carry the bonds which were eventually put over at the ratio of ten to one. Mr. Hewitt, your president, was chairman of the sewer committee of the chamber and co-operated with every civic force in Glendale, using all of his influence to bring about these splendid results of which Glendale can well be justly proud.

"Planning Commission—At the beginning of the year, your secretary recommended a planning committee for the one purpose of creating a City Planning Commission. The board appointed such a committee and they took up the work in such a determined way that in a very few months they convinced the City Council of the necessity of such a commission and we now have a splendid City Planning commission doing most effective work.

"Fire Prevention and Flood Control—Through the efforts and recommendations of Mr. Hayselden, a fire prevention and flood control committee was appointed at the beginning of this year and that committee has been most active and has done much effective work, the result of which is that today we have in Glendale, ten fire fighting units that are prepared to meet the fire hazards in every possible way. These fire fighting units are part of the Angeles Forest Protective association, and while they are working separately and apart from the Chamber of Commerce, the existence of this splendid fire fighting body is the direct result of the Chamber's efforts through Mr. Hayselden's great ability in organizing and perfecting these units as they now stand.

"Telegraphic Service—Early in the year we received many complaints from various sources concerning the telegraph service that was being carried on by the Western Union. A strong committee was appointed and all these complaints were taken up with the head office in Los Angeles. In a very short time the office was moved and enlarged, additional office help was supplied and service made most effective in every way.

"Fire Fighting Equipment and Man Power—Very early in the year, the board of directors took up the matter of additional equipment for fighting our local fires within the confines of our city and the number of firemen necessary to meet emergencies of this character. Investigation and reports made resulted in some additional equipment and the addition of a considerable force which makes our fire department a great deal more effective than it ever has been before. This investigation resulted in the re-organization of the fire department and a better understanding by all concerned.

"The Aimee Semple McPherson Meeting—Your secretary was directed to secure, if possible, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson to deliver an address under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce at the Union High school on April 7, 1924. Mrs. McPherson gladly responded to this invitation, and the largest Chamber of Commerce meeting ever held in our city was had in the new high school, there being over 2000 people present. Mrs. McPherson addressed the body on the "Four Cornerstones of Civilization," and all present were extremely delighted and highly elevated.

"Postoffice—The Chamber of Commerce board of directors and postoffice committee rendered very valuable asistance to our local postoffice when a number of the employes were discharged by the government and through this influence, these employes were put back on the payroll within forty-eight hours after our worthy postmaster notified the chamber of this action of the government. The chamber also was largely instrumental in getting our new postoffice located so favorably as it is.

"Advertising Committee—During the year 1923, $6000 was raised and expended for advertising and publicity through the metropolitan newspapers of Los Angeles. This is the first time in the history of our chamber that a separate and distinct advertising fund had been raised. As a result of this $6000 being expended last year, over $1,000,000 worth of taxable property was added to our valuation.

"This year, your board decided to make a more determined and broader canvass for a larger advertising fund. The campaign was put on through our ways and means committee and pledges to the amount of about $30,000 were secured. This fund is now being expended most effectively in advertising the advantages of our beautiful city.

"Membership—During this period, there has been no special effort made to build up the membership and there has been no one especially engaged for that purpose; but we have taken into membership during the seven months since January first 135 new members who have either come in of their own volition or have been seen by the secretary and our collector.

"Miscellaneous—Other smaller matters brought about by the direct action of the Chamber of Commerce were the building of sidewalks by the county supervisors on the side of the bridge on Central avenue. The transportation committee caused the Pacific Electric to park their cars a sufficient distance from the end of the line at Mountain street, to eliminate dangers to automobile traffic at that point. The Chamber of Commerce was also directly instrumental in bringing through our city, a few weeks ago, 500 representatives of the American Society of Civil Engineers; the chamber recommended an increase of salary for postal carriers; assisted property owners to fight assessment suits in the Los Feliz district; and engaged in numerous other activities which cannot be mentioned in a paper of this kind for lack of space."

ENDORSE REPORT ON SCHOOL PLAN

Plans of Joint Committee Favored by Residents Of Two Districts school sites, construction of new schools and enlargement of old schools.

Meets City's Needs

From this study of your report we are convinced that your committee has made a careful survey of the school situation and that your program is a wise one and will be for the best interests of our city, in that it is comprehensive and capable of taking care of the present urgent needs and the expansion which may be expected in the immediate future.

The program should satisfy those who are generously inclined toward providing ample school facilities, and at the same time it is reasonable and conservative enough to have the support of those who look at the matter from the taxpayers' standpoint.

'It is our observation that the cities that forge ahead are those that provide adequately for schools and good roads, and as Glendale is primarily a city of residences, we cannot afford to lag behind in the matter of schools.

Schools Are Asset

One of the most attractive pictures we can put before the California-bound easterners to induce them to come to us is a Glendale which is close to what will be one of the largest metropolitan areas in the world, and yet is superbly and exclusively situated (thanks to the ranges of hills) for beautiful homes, and where there are fine schools. If we have a school system in keeping with the promising destiny of Glendale we immediately draw to us those people who are interested in schools—desirable and worthwhile citizens. In other words, we believe that a too conservative school policy in our case, particularly, would be penny wise and pound foolish, and that, on the other hand, a comprehensive school program such as the joint school board has approved will be economy because it will draw to our midst people with means, it will increase our population faster, and thus our tax revenues will be increased, all of which will make the money we expend on schools a good investment.

However, whether everybody agrees with this theory or not, one thing is certain, and that is that a year-to-year school program for Glendale is a mistake, for the reason that it means overcrowded conditions with halfday sessions, construction of temporary bungalows, a handicapped school faculty, general dissatisfaction among the citizens, and frequent annoying bond issues.

Half-Day Sessions

We deplore the fact that, with the opening of the schools in September, it will be necessary to start half-day sessions in more than half of our schools.

The sites which were known to be necessary a few years ago will now cost considerably more, and if not now purchased will cost still more a year or two hence.

Los Angeles has recently put over a big school program which was voted on 20 to 1. Glendale will, no doubt, take a similar attitude, and we believe that the people will respond more readily to a liberal program which will take care of the whole city than if only a year-to-year program is presented and one which will take care of only certain parts of the city. Very sincerely yours, secured and cheaply handled, we can operate with profit in the most competitive market.

"There are also vast resources of high grade magnesium clays and dolomite available on our properties, and with operations under way with our more important products, we can turn our attention to the exploitation of these secondary chemicals. Our clays have been tested as a base for white lead, paint pigment, putty, calsomine, linoleum filler, window shade filler, oil cloth and many other materials.

Market Is Wide

"The Pacific coast consumes, as nearly as can be estimated, approximately 150,000 tons of soda annually, practically all of which is manufactured from salt and is shipped in from the east at a freight rate of about $12.50 per ton. The purity of our product and the saving of this freight rate will put us in complete dominance on this coast, while Japan, Australia, New Zealand, South America, Mexico and Cuba, as well as Canada and Sweeden, offer us markets readily accessible through the port of Los Angeles.

"Prominent authorities who have investigated our properties and analyzed our deposits have been unanimous in declaring them among the most valuable in the world.

Favorable Reports

"Those who have rendered favorable reports include H. P. Basset, engineer and consulting chemist; A. R. Fuller, mining engineer; Roland S. Quarrier, engineer; F. J. McCinn, B. S., mining engineer; A. E. Place, E. M.; and E. A. Edmunds.

"Alexander Mitchell, former receiver, U. S. Land Office, Los Angeles, for many years a resident of Glendale, living at 2001 Kenneth Road, inspected the properties and declared that the supply of chemicals there is practically inexhaustible."

Associated with C. W. Berry in the Soda & Potash corporation, as members of the board of directors are J. L. Brophy, auditor; Joseph Kirby, attorney; E. Neal Ames, attorney; and H. Hoffman, prominent Southern California merchant. The offices of the corporation are at 630-631 Loew's State building, Los Angeles.

spaces with wide boulevards, which one sees now flanked by fine business buildings; tree-lined, flower-parked streets; with beautiful homes, some more pretentious than others, but all attractive in their own way.

"And the new church has been built along lines showing the same degree of faith. Surely no large gathering needs to be housed in more beautiful or convenient quarters, and no more cordial welcome has been extended than that given by Dr. Edmonds and his people. The city and the church have both built even better than they knew and 'the best is yet to come.'"

ODD BLACKHEADS

We all know what blackheads are: The mouths of the sebacieous glands (oil glands) become filled with dust and dirt, making the little black points which we call blackheads.

In one of our medical journals there is a report of two cases of facial discoloration from the use of proprietary face creams which contained mercurial compounds (calomel). Here are the cases. You will be interested in them. I will change the technical words so that you will understand them. If you have a discoloration on your face and are using some face cream, it may be well to investigate it.

"Case 1: Miss C. A., aged 45, a school teacher, who was first seen December 27, 1920, complained chiefly of discoloration of the face and of insomnia. The skin of the eyelids and around the mouth and chin and the folds of the neck were a brownish-grey or slate color. At a distance of several feet, the discoloration reminded one strongly of the dirty neck and face of a boy who had limited his ablutions to Tom Sawyer's minimum. In fact, this teacher's pupils had remarked that she did not wash her face properly, and some of her coworkers had, in a bantering manner, passed similar comments. A well-known dermatologist had told her that he considered the discoloration to be due to a metallic deposit, but that he could not identify the source. He had evidently not suspected the face cream.

"Inspection with a magnifying lens showed that the discoloration of the affected areas was due to minute black points in the mouths of the oil and perspiration glands.

"A painstaking, general examination of the patient revealed nothing of note. An attempt was made to gather enough material for chemical examination by scraping the superficial layers of the skin, but nothing could be removed in this way. The patient, however, had with her a jar of her favorite face cream, a widely-known preparation, which she had used for fifteen years. This was analyzed and was found to contain large amouts of bismuth and mercury. Owing to the fact that the pigmentation involved only the areas over which this face cream had been applied, and in consideration of the evident superficial character of the pigmentation, it was strongly suspected that one of these chemicals might be the causative agent.

"Case 2: Mrs. K. H., aged 31, who was seen for the first time March 21, 1921, presented virtually the same type of discoloration of the face and neck as that of the patient in Case 1, only the pigmentation was less pronounced. The discoloration of the face had been noticed for about four years. The patient herself had begun to suspect that it was probably due to the face cream she had been using, but believed that part of it was the result of "liver trouble'."

The face cream was analyzed and found to contain a mild form of mercury. This report was confirmed by the patient, who said that she had seen a report of a chemical examination of this favorite cream of hers in one of the popular journals. Through experiments with the cream, which the doctor performed on his own arm, it was discovered that if a mild alkaline were added to it, it would produce a black deposit, and that this black deposit disappeared when a weak solution of acetic acid was washed over it.

Physiologists do not agree on the reaction of the perspiration in normal persons. Some say that the pure perspiration is usually acid in reaction. Others believe that the reaction is alkaline, but is rendered acid after secretion by the decomposition of the oil from oil glands of the skin. From the experiments described, it would seem that in these two cases the perspiration must have been alkaline. Both patients were advised to wash the skin with a 2 per cent water solution of acetic acid, and the discoloration at the time of the writing of this article, was gradually fading.

The lesson we should learn from these cases is, if you are using some face cream and if you have some unusual discoloration on your skin, you had better discontinue the cream until you find out the cause. I understand that ordinary face creams do not contain chemicals, but probably most of the bleaching or peeling creams do.

The synod this morning approved the plans for a campaign throughout California to raise $30,000 to complete the amount needed for the erection of a community church at Davis, where the church burned last January. Rev. Nathan M. Fiske, pastor of the Davis Community church, in an address on the subject, said the people of Davis had pledged $30,000, the Presbyterian boards have granted $30,000, the last $10,000 being contingent upon the raising of the balance, and that $10,000 was the amount of insurance realized on the other building, bringing the amount needed up to $100,000.

Outlines Work

Rev. Fiske spoke after Rev. W. H. Oxtoby of San Anselmo, chairman of the synod's committee on Christian education, had read the report of that committee. Dr. Oxtoby outlined tthe work accomplished by the committee in the past year and discussed the plans for the coming year. A number of resolutions, covering organization work and future plans, were passed by the synod.

The nominating committee, named last week by Moderator Briegleb, reported today on committee chairmen and chairman of the synod field council. Their recommendations were: For chairman of the synod field council, Dr. Jed W. Burns, Los Angeles; vice-chairman of the synod field council, Dr. J. A. Stevenson of San Jose; chairman of the committee on national missions, Dr. Frank N. Silsley, of Oakland; chairman of the committee on foreign missions, Dr. Samuel G. Livingston, South Pasadena; chairman of the committee on Christian education, Dr. W. H. Oxtoby, of San Anselmo; chairman of the committee on pensions, James Marwick, Santa Barbara. Their election was by acclamation when there were no further nominations from the floor.

Moderator Talks

Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, moderator of the general assembly, addressed the delegates of the synod of Arizona at their meeting this morning. Dr. Macartney spoke on the recent controversy in the churches between the fundamentalists and modernists, and said it accomplished much good since it caused people to discuss their faith, to take a stand in the matter and to take a general inventory of the religious ideas and activities.

Dr. B. Wrenn Webb, state executive for the synod of Arizona, gave his annual report on the activities of his office during the past year and discussed plans for the coming year. W. D. Himbaugh, known throughout Arizona as the premier Sunday school missionary of the west, gave his report.

Reunion and Dinner

In order to complete their program before the close of the synod tomorrow, Moderator G. S. Sloan of Arizona has called a meeting of the synod for 5 o'clock this afternoon at the church. At this time the delegates will hear the report of Rev. Dirk Lay, past moderator of Arizona, and chairman of the committee on program and field activities.

The graduates of the Auburn Theological seminary and their wives held a reunion and dinner at the church today noon. Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian churrch, and former moderator of the general assembly, who graduated in 1894 from Auburn, was the guest of honor.

The much discussed baseball games are scheduled for this afternoon on the diamond of the Harvard High school. TELLS PLANS TO PENSION PASTORS

Delegate to Synod Explains Project to Provide Ministers' Fund

There has never been an hour in the history of the world when the world needed the church as it does now, declared Rev. Henry B. Master, D. D., of New York City, secretary of the board of ministerial relief of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, in an address delivered before the California synod last night at the Glendale Presbyterian church.

The world is sick morally and mentally, Dr. Master said, and the only hope of curing it is through the church. For this work, the greatest array of churchmen and laymen are needed, he said, but the wages paid ministers today, while higher than the salaries of other years, are still too low.

Tells Pension Plan

The average preacher today, he said, has nothing to look forward to nor expect when he retires from the service after years of preaching, beyond a small amount insufficient to keep him and his family. He outlined a plan that has been approved by the general assembly, and a number of synods throughout the United States, whereby a pension fund would be created, and pensions paid which would amount to half the yearly salary of preachers who had served 35 years.

The pension plan discussed last night by Dr. Master was the same plan outlined by him in detail Saturday morning in an address before the synod at a business session. At that time the California synod endorsed the plan, and later the Arizona synod voted in favor of the plan.

Need $15,000,000

The pension system will go into effect April 1, 1926, he said, provided three conditions are met: First, the plan must be endorsed and approved by at least 4,000 churches; second, the plan must be approved by at least 4,000 ministers; and, third, a special committee must raise $15,000,000 for organization work and paying pensions until the plan gets on a self-supporting basis.

The fund will be maintained by the payment of 2½ per cent of the annual salary by the preacher, and 7½ per cent of the annual salary paid by the church, he said.

HONOR DELEGATES TO CHURCH MEET

THREE GIRLS END LONG HIKE HERE

Start Out From New York On Walk But Secure Many Auto Rides

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Windas of 202 East Garfield avenue have as their guests this week three girls who hiked across the Continent from New York City since June 24 of this year and visited many of the scenic points in the United States on their trip West. The girls are Winifred Dufficy, Charlotte Mott and Estelle Ettinger.

Miss Dufficy and Miss Mott arrived in Bozeman, Mon., thirteen days after leaving New York and there met Miss Ettinger who accompanied them on the remainder of the trip. After spending five days on a ranch near Bozeman the three girls left on July 13 for Yellowstone Park, where they spent two days before again taking up the journey.

On July 16 they started for the coast via Portland, Ore., and arrived in Los Angeles on July 25. In the last ten days of their hike they covered only 2500 miles. They came immediately to Glendale to visit the Windas family who are friends of Miss Dufficy.

Hike in Autos

The girls are stenographers in New York City and took the transcontinental hike in order to see the country and as a novel form of vacation. They report that although each morning they started out on foot, the motoring public did not let them continue that way for long and they traveled a great deal of the distance in the cars of friendly autoists.

They spent the nights in hotels, Y. W. C. A. buildings, or camped out along the road. Everyone took a great interest in their undertaking and offered to help them in any way they could, the girls report. They plan to return to the eastern coast in the same manner and will start out the latter part of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Windas will drive them as far as San Francisco.

STREET WORK IS BEING HASTENED

Colorado Property Owners Improving Boulevard At Rapid Rate

A practical demonstration of what an improvement club can accomplish can be seen by a trip down Colorado boulevard these days. Less than a year ago the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association was formed to remedy a condition made necessary by the enforced widening of the street and the setting back of curbs prior to the acquisition by the city of the necessary property for sidewalk space, according to J. M. Boland, president.

The property owners were faced with a condition without precedent. The total sidewalk space except two feet was to be taken for street paving and more than a year would elapse before condemnation proceedings would secure the removal of buildings, trees, concrete retaining walls, lawns and other impediments to pedestrian traffic.

Owners Go Ahead

A few public-spirited property owners on the street got together determined to cure the condition without awaiting the slow progress of the courts. The Colorado Boulevard Improvement association was formed at an enthusiastic meeting of property owners in the City Hall council chamber. Officers were elected and work commenced. In less than two months' time a fund of over $3,000 was raised by popular assessment and every building in the way was moved back, put on a new foundation and the work paid for. This work was done in such a business-like manner that there remained a balance of more than $1,000 in the treasury of the association, most of which has been made available for advertising purposes or such other public movements as may be necessary.

The street has been paved and, through the co-operation of the association, the property owners are laying sidewalks on the property under condemnation and having them inspected and accepted by the city at least a year before they otherwise could be. Hundreds of feet of sidewalk space is being graded and sidewalks laid every day and the street will soon be complete in this respect.

Lighting System

The next step in progress will be the installation of the finest boulevard lighting system that can be had. A thorough investigation was made of all the best types and the committee has made its recommendations which will be conveyed to the property owners in a mass meeting to be held Thursday night in the council chamber at the City Hall. This again will be a voluntary act of the property owners as it will be necessary to deed to the city certain rights of way, etc.

The city will be asked to make a survey at once for the light installation and the work should soon be under way.

The association has been active in matters of public benefit and has made its presence known to the community," says Mr. Boland. "The association members are active in securing new business for the street and several important projects are under consideration. This fall will see much building activity on this boulevard and with the completion of the work now under way it is expected that property values will mount rapidly."

The association is governed by an efficient set of citizens consisting of J. M. Boland, president; A. W. Hewitt, secretary and treasurer, and directors, E. M. Grey, R. Creyk, M. Cannon, J. N. Peterson, and I. F. Groesbeck.

Mass meetings of the association are held as often as the board of directors have matters of sufficient interest for public discussion. The officers and directors are business men with property interests in different sections of the street so that the property owners are assured of proper representation of their own particular section. That it is doing a public good is evident in the work now under way.

CHAPTER XV

"Ah, he's a great master!" little Dora said, solemnly. Craig thought her positive little statement rather amusing and touching. "Sis—the Dvorak!" she pleaded, aloud.

"You shall have it!" Konrad agreed, with a military bow.

The circle listened, marvelled, applauded. Craig, and Dora, sitting next to him, led the applause. But to Craig an odd enchantment, a bewildered sense of having been here in this odd, warm, cluttered room, and in this strangely assorted, strangely stimulating company before, was making even Kronski and the Amati seem of secondary importance. He thought confusedly that he liked these people; liked the very homeliness and simplicity of the whole thing, and wanted them to like him. There was a refreshing heartiness and honesty about it all——

And this young girl next to him, with her enthusiasms, her artlessness, her brown eyes and slender shabby figure, was strangely, irresistibly appealing. There were cadences in her slightly husky young voice before. She charmed him, she was at once so old and so young; he wanted to laugh at and cry at her confidences. Somehow it wrung his heart when she looked at him gravely, at Kronski's third selection, and said seriously: "Vieuxtemps, I think. Is it? Anyway," she whispered, solemnly, "you can hear that Hilary's improvising the accompaniment!"

Craig felt ignorant, young, alien, in this atmosphere, and he rather liked the feeling. In his own set he had been conscious for many years of a certain sense of superiority. Here, despite the absurdities, the Stout child and her pale mother, Tom Lester and his ready-tied tie, old Stovall and the high-busted, panting Italian woman, there was some quality that made him oddly desirous to shine.

After the music they were informal. Elsie Stout played "Narcissus" for Kronski, the little French woman recited something in her mother tongue about "le lendemain." Kronski went back to the nursery rhyme; what was that about the neighbors, now?

Refreshments were now being served; and if Craig had had any wonder left, it might have been expended upon what Hilary had provided for her guests. Many of these, with the instinctive delicacy of the simple, had by this time expressed their appreciation and departed. The Latimers and the Lesters and the Stouts had gone, but the old doctor and the French and Italian women remained.

On the table, frankly drawn forth from the wall and cleared for the feast, were sardines and soda crackers, preserved plums and a large pot of tea, pickles and butter, rye bread, and gingersnaps. Craig's heart for some reason suffered a wrench of acute pity when he saw added to these a blue bowl of cold potatoes. Were they as poor as that?

Kronski, however, apparently saw nothing amiss. He drank his hot weak tea sugared, from a long tumbler, and when they had eaten the sardines, dipped his potatoes in the rich oil in the tin with many an appreciative word. And he could not say enough, when the time came, about the gingersnaps.

What were they, these little hot cakes? Ginger, eh? From the South Sea Islands, eh? But where did one get these cakes?

"From any grocery," Hilary assured him, laughing. He looked at her with pathetic faith.

"No, but I go into these groceries, why do I not see them?" he demanded. He allowed her to bring in from the kitchen all that were left in the bag, and stowed them in the pocket of his fur coat when the time came to go. It was one o'clock. "But I will sleep all day tomorrow," he told them, reassuringly. "And then, in the evening, I shall play for you and the Butterfly!"

Craig took Madama Ghecchi home, and reached his own rooms in a state of mental confusion and bewilderment. At one moment he felt only amusement; what an evening! with its heated faces and jumbled chairs, the whine of the violin, the dominent richness of Kronski's voice. He remembered himself eating with gusto—somehow everything had tasted very well.

The predominant impression was not flattering to his late company: this Kronski must be no more than a peasant, when all was said and done. And the girls—poor little unevenly developed, curiously handicapped creatures! Would they really follow up the family gift, and make professional musicians of themselves some day? The little one was certainly beautiful. A surer cut to wealth and fame for her would be through the moving picture world. He must not, Craig decided, become entangled with these girls; they were too simple, too fine.

The morning came to the man and to the Collier girls with a mood of cold awakening. Craig, who had eagerly promised Dora last night that he would certainly attend the Kronski concert tonight in Philadelphia, found himself inclined to do nothing of the kind. The evening party seemed only a flurried memory, he could not account for what he had said, and felt, and done during those three feverish hours; he disliked the idea of meeting Miss Collier in the office this morning, and thought with suddenly reddening cheeks that Tom Lester might at this moment be telling his associates in the village dry goods store of the good company Craig Spaulding could be when he "got started."

Dora awakened headachy and depressed. Her morning would be spent in sweeping the demoralized living room and in washing a pyramid of sticky plates. Cigar and cigarette ashes were everywhere, and scented everything; there was no butter for breakfast, they had used the last scrap for the impromptu party. She remarked pettishly that she did not care what she wore to the concert; she was sick of living, some people got everything, and some people drudged along all their lives and starved and pinched and scraped and were laughed at for their trouble!

Hilary, for once, found no soothing answers for these familiar complaints. She looked pale, and seemed absent-minded and worried, entirely unlike herself. The glorious evening had left her, Dora knew, in high spirits, and while they were going to bed she had exulted in the memory of it.

"But Butterfly, sweetheart," she had said to Dora, when, warm and happy and confident, Dora was standing besides her brushing her thick, soft hair, "don't you realize that all our lives are going to be like that? That's the way musicians are—that's the way really great people are—not little snobs like Maude Underwood and Gertrude Morrill!"

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HUMPY JUMP

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy looked out in the yard of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one morning, and saw the rabbit gentleman jumping over his tall silk hat.

The muskrat lady housekeeper rubbed her eyes once and she rubbed her eyes twice with the end of her tail, to make sure she saw straight. Then she cried out:

"Whatever in the world can have happened to Wiggy now? He must have gone crazy, jumping over his best, tall silk hat like that. What are you doing that for?" she asked the bunny, as he put his hat up on a rack, making it taller than ever, and jumped over that.

"I'm practicing leaping," was the answer. "I haven't done much jumping of late, and I don't want to forget how to do it. I go off adventuring every day, and so many things happen that I have no time for jumping. So I'm doing some of it now."

With that Uncle Wiggily hopped down in the laundry and brought up a wash tub. He placed it on the ground and tried to jump over it. But he didn't go far enough and came down on top of the middle of the tub, ker bunko bango!

"There, you see!" he called to Nurse Jane, as he twinkled his pink nose. "That shows I need practice. Now I will do my best humpy jump and see if I can go over the wash tub."

With that Uncle Wiggily humped his back, as a cat does when she sees a strange dog. Then he gave a hop, skip and a jump, and over the wash tub he leaped as clean as a hound's tooth!

"That's better!" said Uncle Wiggily, as he looked back and saw that his leap had been a good one. "I am getting back in form. Now I'll jump over two wash tubs!"

"Why don't you try to jump over the candlestick, as Jack B. Nimble did?" laughed Nurse Jane.

"I shall—glad you mentioned it!" laughed the bunny. On top of the two wash tubs he put a candlestick, and he leaped over all three. "Now I am in good trim to go out adventuring," said Mr. Longears.

So adventuring he went, and he had not traveled far over the fields and through the woods before, all of a sudden, the Fuzzy Fox leaped out at him from the bushes near a patch of briars.

"Oh, ho!" snarled the Fox. "I am glad to see you, Uncle Wiggily. Your ears look very good to me just now!"

"Well, I am not glad to see you!" said the rabbit gentleman. "But before you nibble my ears, Mr. Fox, I should like to see what good you are jumping."

"I am a better jumper than you!" sneered the Fox, who was quite proud of himself.

"I can jump much farther than you, I think," spoke Uncle Wiggily, modest like and shy. "Now there is a pile of briar brush. Do you want to see me jump over it?" he asked, pointing to the brush.

"You can't jump over the briars!" laughed the Fox. "But I can! Go ahead! You can't do it, I know, but I'll show you how."

Uncle Wiggily took a run, and he humped up his back as he had when he leaped over the two wash tubs with the candlestick on them.

"This is my humpy jump!" thought the rabbit, and he sailed cleanly over the briars; the best leap he had ever made.

"Well, it was a pretty good jump," said the Fox. "But I'll do a better one and then I'll nibble your ears!" The Fox leaped over the briars, but, not having practiced, and not humping himself enough, he didn't sail over the briars. Instead he came down "ker flop!" in the middle of them. He was all scratched and stuck and stickered. "Oh, scowzie wow!" he howled.

"Ha! ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he ran safely home, leaving the Fox in the briar patch. "I guess I'm a pretty good humpy jumper." And, if the radio does not laugh in its sleep and make the tea kettle think it's time to serve breakfast, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily raking the lawn.

TAFFETA AND VELVET
NEW YORK, July 30.—White taffeta and black velvet, always a lovely combination, are at their best at present in an evening wrap. The wrap is of white taffeta, with a wide black velvet footing. Tiny velvet flowers are scattered, hit or miss, over the wrap, which fastens with black velvet streamers of very wide ribbon.

SOX HURL CHALLENGE AT CLUBS OF COAST LEAGUE

Chamber of Commerce Joins Frank Kerwin in Sending Defi to Prexy Harry Williams, As Well As Manager of Each Team

With twenty-five straight victories tucked away under their belts, just three less than the world's record for twenty-eight consecutive wins, the Glendale White Sox are looking around for more worlds to conquer and are willing to take on any organization that disports itself on any western diamond

Today the Glendale Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a challenge to Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league, as well as individual challenges to the managers of each team in the circuit, offering to play the entire list of coast league teams a series of games on the days when the leaguers are resting from the regular schedule.

Frank Kerwin, owner of the White Sox, appeared before the directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night at their meeting at the home of President W. E. Hewitt, 319 East Randolph street, and asked that the organization get behind the plan to challenge the leaguers while the team is riding on the crest of its victories and while its success is advertising Glendale from one end of the country to the other, and his request was unanimously granted.

Play on Mondays

Mr. Kerwin and Secretary E. F. Sanders this morning prepared the defi to the moguls of the Pacific Coast league and sent it off, and they are now eagerly waiting to hear whether their challenges to a series of Monday games will be accepted by the big fellows.

The game between the White Sox and the navy champion team from the Air Fleet station at San Diego, that is to be played in the Glendale ball park Sunday, August 3, is expected to furnish a close battle, but Kerwin declares that he believes his gang of pastimers have the edge on the boys from the fleet.

FEATURE BOUT IS DRAW AT VERNON

Young Nationalista, Rivers Put Up Fast Scrap But Decision Is 50-50

Young Nationalista and Georgie Rivers, mixing in the feature bout at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena last night, finished with a 50-50 decision after putting up a lively scrap that pleased the fans who packed the place. The first two rounds went to Rivers, while young Nationalista came back strong after the half-way mark was passed and copped the last two rounds.

The semi-windup ended in a draw also, when Johnny Jordan and Young Carmen battled all around the ring. Carmen took the lead early in the fracas, but Jordan pushed him towards the end. Johnny Lamar and Young Datto, boxing in the special spot, held the fans' attention for a while, and Johnny copped the decision.

Mike Solano threw too much leather for Jimmy Powell, although Jimmy did a little leather leading on his own account, and the verdict went to Mike. Hank Gatton and Dude Martinez disappointed the cash customers when neither went down for the count in their mixup. They put up what appeared to be a fast fight and split the decision. Jack Griff found Joe Burns' chin in the first round and Joe went to sleep for a short while. Bud Shelby holds the distinction of winning a fight and then losing it, for he pounded Phil Lewis all over the ring, but the referee got all fussed and raised Lewis' hand, when he meant to hoist Bud's mitt skyward.

Lewis Retains Title By Beating Zbyszko

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. — Ed (Strangler) Lewis today retained his heavyweight wrestling title by taking two falls out of three from Stanislaus Zbyszko. Lewis won the first with a headlock in 18 minutes, 45 seconds. Zbyszko took the second in 18 minutes and 40 seconds with a combined toe hold and arm lock while Lewis ended it with a headlock for the third fall in nine minutes and fifty seconds.

It took Detroit 11 innings to beat the Athletics, 4 to 3.

TAGGING THE BASES

Carl Mays was effective and the Reds trimmed the Robins, 12 to 2. Walker hit two homers.

Joe Shaute, Speaker's ace, turned in a 4 to 2 victory over Washington.

The Browns won from the Red Sox, 3 to 0, Sisler batting in all of his team's runs.

Three runs in the sixth won for the Cubs over the Phillies, 4 to 3.

Frank Brazill Now Directing Portland

PORTLAND, July 30.—Frank Brazill, hard hitting third baseman, is in charge of the Portland baseball team today, following the sudden retirement of Manager Bill Kenworthy.

In relinquishing the managerial post, Kenworthy also sold his entire block of stock for $46,250 to President William Klepper, his brother, Milton R. Klepper and Dr. Earl V. Morrow. The "Iron Duke" also was paid his full contract price of $7200 for the season.

From authoritative sources it was learned today that Kenworthy's resignation was forced by action of President Klepper and directors of the club, who tired of the continual "razzing" of the fans and falling off of attendance.

VERNON WINS AS CRANDALL FALLS

Opening Game of Series Is Lost by Angels 6 to 4; Oakland Victors

By BEN McGUIRE
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—"Doc" Crandall blew up in the fifth inning with a new umpire calling 'em and the Angels lost to the Tigers at Washington park here yesterday, 6 to 4. The novitiate arbiter had more patience than eyesight and wore well while players on both teams ragged his decisions from behind the batters. Rube Ellis, also substituting as arbiter, did very nicely in the garden.

Weinert and Ramsey followed Crandall on the mound while Christian held the Angels well until the eighth when three runs were scored off McAuley's triple. R. Murphy also tripled for the "home" team, which in this instance is Vernon, and numerous two-baggers, timely singles and a sacrifice accounted for several runs.

Oakland lost its losing streak and trimmed the Seals, 7 to 4, overcoming a three-run lead in the seventh.

With good backing Kenworthy won for Portland in a game with Sacramento by a 7-2 score.

Salt Lake will play at Seattle today after a ride on the railroad.

Department of Labor Orders Siki Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 30.—An investigation looking to the possible deportation of Battling Siki, Senegalese prize fighter, was ordered today by the department of labor.

Siki's recent marriage in New York City led to the inquiry, in view of reports that he had another wife in Europe. If it develops that Siki has committed bigamy, he will be sent back to France, officials said.

EASTERN BOXERS IN COAST DEBUT

Bob Sage, Detroit Scrapper, Shows Wares at Legion Stadium Friday

Bob Sage, scrappy middleweight from Detroit, will make his Pacific coast debut Friday night at Hollywood when he meets Mickey Rockson in the ring at the Legion stadium. Sage comes to the coast with a good record, having defeated Billy Connoley, who got a shade over Young Stribling. He has met Byran Downey, Phil Krug, George Shade, Billy Shade and Anthony Downey.

Rockson, who is a favorite in ring circles throughout the Southland, will be a fitting opponent for Sage, if Sage is as good as his advance notices claim he is. Rockson held Bert Colima to a draw several weeks ago and is a classy scrapper. A bright future will await Sage, according to Matchmaker Tom Kennedy, if he upsets Rockson.

Johnny Adams, of San Bernardino, who won the Pacific coast lightweight title a week ago last Friday night, when he pounded Frankie Burns around the ring, will be given the belt donated by the Hollywood Legion Post No. 43 at the mitt party Friday night.

Brehme of the electric shop lads, was high shooting king last night, rolling 226-227-214, although Pete Neise of the Gassers was individual high man with 243 in the second game.
